BRATTLEBORO SAVINGS & LOAN'S TONI CIAMPAGLIONE AND KELLI WARRINER ATTEND SUMMIT FOR WOMEN ADVISORS

Mentorship and financial literacy were the focus at Commonwealth conference

Brattleboro, Vermont – July 24, 2019 – At a conference of more than 100 affiliated advisors in Nashville, Tennessee last month, Toni Ciampaglione and Kelli Warriner represented Brattleboro Savings & Loan in a range of discussions about strategies for inspiring growth and promoting change in the financial sector. The Summit for Women Advisors was hosted by Commonwealth Financial Network, the nation's largest privately held Registered Investment Adviser–Broker/Dealer and a partner to BS&L's Wealth Management Division.

The three-day conference featured discussions and panels with women from a broad range of experiences on topics including: leading an award-winning culture, navigating courageous conversations with clients, and fostering client and employee loyalty. Keynote speakers implored participants to build community, to address wealth inequality through their work, and to think creatively about cultivating financial literacy in future generations. “Wealth is a form of power,” keynote speaker Chloe B. McKenzie, founder and CEO of On A Wealth Kick, LLC and BlackFem, Inc. said. She encouraged participants to support young girls today and throughout their lives.

“We recognize the critical role that financial services can play in empowering underserved populations and addressing inequality,” said Joe Little, founder of the BS&L Wealth Management Division. “We were proud to have Toni and Kelli representing our team at the summit as part of our longstanding commitment to social responsibility in all that we do.”

Kelli J. Warriner is a Certified Financial Planner at Park Place Advisors (BS&L's Wealth Management Division) and Toni Ciampaglione is an Accredited Asset Management Specialist designee. Together, they have almost forty years of experience on the Park Place Advisors team.

About Brattleboro Savings & Loan
